

LITERATURE POLICY

There will be no leaving ,or passing out of, literature at delegate tables or in the Convention Hall except official convention documents such as schedules, committee reports, etc. All literature in the convention space rented by the Party shall be on paid vendor tables or via purchase for insertion into the convention brochure or swag bags. If you do not have a table, oftentimes table vendors who are sympathetic to your views will be receptive to letting you leave some items.

On vendor tables, any literature or other items can be displayed/distributed with the following exceptions (and subject to any venue rules):

- No promotion of political parties other than the Libertarian Party.
- No use of symbols or words that are commonly associated within the general public as deeply derogative slurs.

If there is a question on any items, it should be brought to the attention of the Convention Oversight Committee for advance guidance. Materials in violation will be collected and deposited at the Registration area for pickup by the respective owners and will be discarded if not picked up by end of convention.

There shall be no distribution of literature via standing and passing out outside the convention hall doors or in the vendor area table. The rules of the venue will guide any such distribution in other areas.
